DIRECTORY OF ADULT DAY CARE CENTERS

HE 22.202:

The HEALTH CARE FINANCING ADMINISTRATION (HCFA) was established to combine health financing and quality assurance programs into a single agency. HCFA is responsible for the Medicare program, Federal participation in the Medicaid program, the Professional Standards Review program and a variety of other health care quality assurance programs.

The mission of the Health Care Financing Administration is to promote the timely delivery of appropriate, quality health care to its beneficiaries—approximately 47 million of the nation's aged, disabled and poor. The Agency must also ensure that program beneficiaries are aware of the services for which they are eligible, that those services are accessible and of high quality and that Agency policies and actions promote efficiency and quality within the total health care delivery system.

The Office of Standards and Certification of the Health Standards and Quality Bureau, HCFA, is responsible for the development, interpretation and implementation of health and safety standards and other related policies for providers and suppliers of health services under Medicare, Medicaid and other Federal programs.

The Directory of Adult Day Care Programs provides an overview of the 618 ongoing programs in the Nation that provide services to approximately 13,500 persons daily. Program information includes: name, address and telephone number of each program; program director; date started; sponsoring organization; funding sources; nature of program; and average daily census. It is hoped that this Directory will serve as a resource to providers of services as well as those contemplating the development of new programs.

The rapid growth of Adult Day Care in this Nation is a reflection of escalating interest in the development of long-term care alternatives in the community setting. Two years ago, the Adult Day Care Directory contained fewer than 300 programs; the current Directory lists more than double that number, and these programs provide services to almost 13,500 persons daily. Clearly Adult Day Care is gaining acceptance as an option in the continuum of long-term care.

Many different types of agencies and organizations provide support for Adult Day Care. Great variation also exists in payment mechanisms. Increasingly, health-oriented Adult Day Care programs are being initiated or expanded in States where reimbursement for these services is provided through Title XIX of the Social Security Act (Medicaid). Currently, 118 programs in 10 States fall into this category.

We hope this Directory of Adult Day Care Centers will be useful in promoting dialogue between public and private organizations concerned with planning or programming for this newly emerging form of care.

Helen L. Smits, MD.
Director

INTRODUCTION

The listing of Adult Day Care Centers contained in this updated Directory should be regarded as an ongoing effort to catalog programs in a rapidly developing field.

The Directory of Adult Day Care Centers has been compiled under the direction of Mrs. Edith G. Robins, and is based on information on hand, as well as information provided by State officials, representatives of State Adult Day Care Associations, and individual providers. We are deeply grateful for the efforts extended by all who so generously assisted in this challenging information-gathering task.

Several factors should be kept in mind with regard to use of this Directory:

1. Every effort has been made to include only those programs that provide Adult Day Care services; Senior Center programs are not included.
2. Psychiatric Day Hospitals and Day Treatment Centers providing primarily psychiatric or mental health services for adults of all ages are not included; however, those programs designed exclusively for the geriatric population are included.
3. Day Care programs for the mentally retarded are not included.

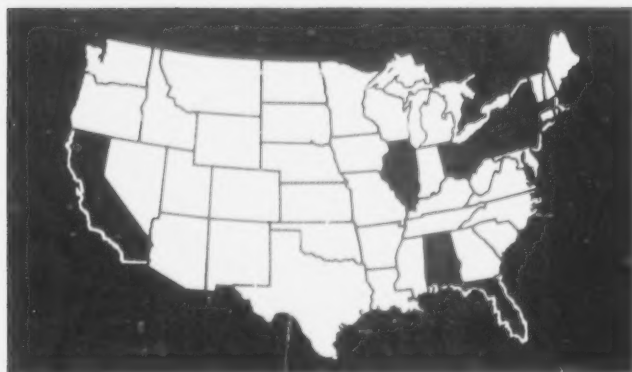

To further help users of the Directory, programs have been classified as Restorative, Maintenance and Social on the basis of information received from service providers. It should be noted, however, that these are judgmental decisions, particularly since no universal standards are currently available. Therefore, classifications in this Directory reflect the way providers view their individual programs. The classifications are as follows:

- a. Restorative programs are those offering intensive, health-supportive services prescribed in individual care plans for each participant. Where prescribed, therapeutic services are provided on a one-to-one basis by certified specialists; constant health monitoring and provision of a therapeutic activities program are integral components of the total program.
- b. Maintenance programs are those with the capability (in terms of health professionals on the staff and appropriate equipment) to carry out a care plan for each participant based on recommendations from the personal physician (or clinic) and developed by the multidisciplinary Program team. Services provided include health monitoring and supervised therapeutic individual and/or group activities, in addition to psychosocial services.
- c. Social programs show wide variations in nature and scope of services offered. Some Social programs place great stress on health maintenance, with nursing services an integral part of the total program; other Social programs create formal linkages with local clinics or health departments and transport participants to needed services; still other programs are concerned solely with socialization and lunches, as well as general assistance with the needs of daily living. There is no "typical" Social Day Care program.

We would appreciate receiving pertinent information about any new programs that are created, or any corrections in the present listing. Such information or suggestions should be addressed to:
